Our Pilgrimage

As pilgrims gathered we from far and near
To join the winding caravan which brought
Us to this ancient shrine. We vainly sought
Companions, till at once there did appear
A goodly band, our classmates, guided by
A bright and lofty spirit. Till at last
We saw a stately tower 'gainst the sky,
And knew the perils of our journey passed.

With beating hearts we climbed the grassy slope
And passed the gates, in welcome opened wide;
Within our breasts there burned the fire of hope
And youthful ardor, which we could not hide.
And as we labored in this learned shrine
To gain the blessings of the wise and sage,
We said our penance over line by line,
And studied through the prophets page by page.

And now we leave these venerated halls
Where oft' the echoes answered to our tread—
Our task is done, and duty sternly calls
To fields of labor stretching on ahead.
And as we journey on our homeward ways,
We carry back the lessons dearly gained
By toilsome work, by which shall be attained
Our cherished goals, far-bathed in distant haze.

History of the Senior Class

In the fall of 1916 the Faculty had the pleasure of enrolling one of the most promising Freshman classes that ever sang "on the Banks of the Old Buffalo." We came to the little town situated among these picturesque foothills of West Virginia for our college initiation, and by that we do not mean hazing alone, but to take on new customs, to learn and to see things differently.

Just as the true initiation in secret circles is preceded by the rough, so is our true college initiation. Our testimony will stand the test, for we speak from bitter experiences. Our days of initiation began, when, on a chilly fall day, the Sophomores and Freshmen came together for their tug of war. We must admit that the pride of those sixty-four wearers of the Gold and Black was somewhat shaken when we were forced to walk through the chilly waters of the Buffalo by the strength of those haughty Sophomores. But notice, if you please, that we said shaken and not overcome, for the defeat of that day spurred us on to greater efforts, and from that day to this we have held our own. A few weeks following revealed the unusual darings of 1920. Days and nights passed which were filled with visions of burning caps, scissors and flying hair. We were not ashamed to admit it, for we had the consolation of knowing that we were not without company, for we did unto others as others did unto us. The last few months of our Freshman year were filled with excitement and anxiety, but not of the usual type, for in the spring of that college year Uncle Sam sent out his S. O. S. call. This call to arms rang in the ears of the true, noble manhood of our class and they answered the call, some enlisting, others going to the farms, and still others into the factories, until only a few were left to keep the home fires burning.

In the fall of 1917 our class returned, but we missed many of the familiar faces. That year we bade farewell to others and still others, but we would not have had it otherwise. We are proud of all of them for the sacrifices they made and the service they rendered.

Amid the bidding of farewells and the singing of patriotic songs, those of us who were left behind did not forget that we were here for a purpose. We were not only successful in the classroom, but also in the other activities, such as debating and athletics.

At last we reached the third mile stone of our journey. This indeed was a trying year. Words fail to express the varied experiences that were ours. Instead of the familiar signals of the football squad, came the strange tramp, tramp of a passing company of khaki clad soldiers. But with the coming of peace, came the removal of these strange sounds.

During the winter term the school was restored to its normal conditions and one by one the boys returned to complete their college course.

What Junior will forget that night in January when for the first time in his college career he orated from the chapel platform? What a task it was to prepare and give those speeches, but how free we felt after the last one was over. Little did we know at that time, that these would be the last.

Like our Freshman year, this too had a very unfortunate ending, but for quite different reasons, one of which was the death of our College President, who had toiled and given his all for the benefit of the college.

September found us back again at dear old Bethany. Our work began to take on a more serious tone, for we began to see our stay at Bethany drawing to a close. Our last year has been one of continuous joy. Our relations to the members of the Faculty, who have guided our feeble efforts towards obtaining a higher education and who have assisted us in preparing to meet the great battles of life, have been pleasant and profitable. To them we owe many thanks.

We leave this last year at our dear Alma Mater with heartfelt regret. But whatever we lose of pleasure or advantage will be but gain to our successors and therefore we bequeath to the class of 1921 our robes of seniorhood and our earnest wishes that old Bethany's fostering care may bring to them the joys that have been ours.

BEATRICE PERRY, Historian.

We sing of thee, O Bethany,
 And of the White and green;
 Whate'er betide, thou'lt ever be
 Our Hearts' beloved queen,
 The mountains holding thee so still
 Within their warm embrace;
 The halls that crown the college hill—
 Each mem'ry-waking place;—
 The Buffalo, that laughs to go
 Past banks of sunlit green,
 Or dance beneath the ice and snow—
 We love each tranquil scene.

And sing we, too, from hearts true-blue,
 Of thy best, noblest son;
 The class that's strong and brave and true,
 The class of twenty-one.
 Soon will have passed the one swift year
 We've yet to spend with thee,
 And we must say, with a tender tear;
 "Farewell, dear Bethany!"
 And proudly we in years to be,
 May scale Fame's mountain-height
 To plant where all the world may see,
 The crimson and the white.

BILL LATTO

From the writhing mass of florid humanity there emerges a comely association of brain (?) and brawn, and baby complexion wreathed in conqueror's grin, which "ensemble" is "Old Bill." He janits Oglebay Hall; wears the "B" for athletic prowess, and the C.O.D. (Doctor of Cows) for agronomic skill. Though he outwardly frowns on the fair sex of Bethany, we know that beneath the austere bark there dwells, indestructible, a spirit of honey-sweet devotion which prompts frequent wanderings of mind to the temple of Aphrodite, in Wheeling.

RUTH LESLIE

South America calls our Ruth to a life of service. Ruth is an unselfish, talented girl and we are proud that she is a member of '21. She is a leader in all the school activities and was chosen by the student body as a delegate to the Des Moines convention. Are you in trouble? Go to Ruth.

CHARLES NOVEL GWINN

Charlie came to Bethany from Marshall College in the fall of 1917. Besides being an excellent student, he has been a pillar of strength on the Varsity eleven for the past three years. All in all the class could not afford to be without such a representative.

EVA NEVILLE

One of the first girls the new girls meet when they come to Bethany is Eva. They meet her early, love her at once, for she is a girl who can laugh and be seriously sympathetic with any one at any time. This year Eva is much interested in the chemistry laboratory department. Biz is one of her majors and in this, as in all her other college activities, her motto is, "perseverance always wins."

JOSEPH REEVES

There is not a great amount of material between Joe's head and feet, even though the distance between these parts of his anatomy is more than in the average individual. However, Joe is able to use his long, slim body with telling effect on the football field. Joe also goes in for debating. He is an amiable fellow and well liked by his fellow students.

MARY HELPHREY

Thou are a jolly lassie,
Pretty golden art thy curls.
For friends thou lackest not
Of either boys or girls.

Thou are a student, too,
Thy duties thou wilt never shirk.
Bethany is glad to have thee,
For her, may'st thou ever work.

FRED HELFER

Who is Fred? Well, listen! President of the Y. M. C. A., member of the Student Council, one of Bethany's delegates to the Des Moines Convention, youngest chaplain in the A. E. F., the minister of the Warwood Church, and, withal, an interested worker in every movement for the betterment of Bethany. In point of service at Bethany, Fred is class among the veterans, "a stump on the campus," he says, but we hasten to add if every stump were as valuable as he there would be no need for stump pullers.

ELIZA EDWARDS

"O'er the hills and far away."
Now don't tell her what I am going to say.
She's a good student in every way,
And in biz, why, she always gets an "A."

ERASMUS LINDSEY BEMIS

Judging from the postmark on "Pete's" letters we would say that his home is in Ohio, but we are told that his folks live in the Keystone State. His greatest ambition is to be a doctor and we would predict that he will rival our village physician both in profession and in size. However, at present he is engrossed in his favorite study of church history, and will soon turn out the greatest work of his pen, "THE LAWS OF ECCLESIASTICAL POLITY."

DONALD L. BOYD

"Pee Wee," as we know him, is small in stature, but this by no means hinders his capabilities. He is a backer of every student organization, which means that it prospers. In literary circles he has shown his worth, first as President of Neotrophia, and next as Editor of The Collegian, in which capacity he has never been excelled. It is "Pee Wee's" aim in life to be associated with newspaper work, and we foresee, in him, a second Horace Greeley.

ROBERT SIDNEY TUCK

If you see a tall, slender, serious-looking young man, with a wistful look on his face, walking the corridor alone you may know it is Bob, who hails from the Empire State. There is a reason for the wistful look and the "aloneness." However, when Bob comes to himself he is a jovial fellow, well liked by all. He is a ministerial student and we predict a great future for him in his chosen calling.

GAYLE JOHNSTON

This little girl is so quiet that few of us know her, but she is so obliging that once known she is always liked. She has become quite popular as an artist, and you'll find proof of this statement on many a page of this book.

MARGARET McCOLLAM

Energetic little Margaret comes from the Buckeye State. Her loyalty to Bethany prompts here to take part in all the activities of college life and if necessary she will take the other fellow's part, too. One of the boys remarked the other day, "She is the busiest girl in Bethany," and one has only to hark back to some of her accomplishments to appreciate the truth of that statement.

SADIE CROUCH

Sadie is the school teacher of our class. Her sweet smile is omnipresent, and fortunate are the students who shall bask in its sunshine.

FRANKLIN PAUL JONES

We have with us tonight "The Little Jew Boy," who hails from Banning, Pa. He is noted for his flat feet, good looks, graceful movements, and energetic disposition, his favorite expression being, "Snap out of it!" Jones has no inclination towards biz (except when the Wheeling schools are closed). His future ambition is to make money, and incidentally to be a mining engineer and go home and help his dad dig coal.

WALTER BYRON LACOCK

This dainty Junior, whose coat and trousers are ever of the same hue (?), strolls listlessly about the corridor and campus with eyes modestly lowered and no girl has ever won a tender smile from his sombre face, nor has he ever been known to go on biz in his three years' residence here. On account of his strict attendance to duty he has acquired a vast store of information, so if you want to know anything about the Junior Class, Chemistry, Masonry, or, in fact, anything in the world, just go to "Little Walter" and he will give you his weighty opinion.

MARIE HOLLOWAY

Marie is another of our Junior lassies who hails from the old Buckeye State, of which fact she is more than proud, holding this as a valuable asset for entrance requirement for receiving her degree. Marie is interested in all college activities and is never known to shirk her duty.

MILTON A. HANNA

Milton, better known to Bethany folk as "Salty," claims Millersburg, Ohio, as his home. As a debater he has no peer. As an executive he has served the Class of 1921 faithfully both as President and Vice President. As a member of the 1919 basketball team he showed that he was also something of an athlete. His serious views of life, we believe, will help him greatly in the study and practice of law.

HELEN DAY

Tilly Day? She's true-blue, all wool and a yard wide, etc., etc. Her Bethany history reads like this: Entered in the fall of '17, pursued the regular academic course for two years; last fall decided to devote herself exclusively to English and Music, all the time frowning on that illusive creature, called man. With the opening of the second term her cold northern heart was touched by the chivalry of the South and today when a roll of Bethany's stricken ones is read, Lo! Helen's name leads all the rest.

DAVID ROBERT DAVIES

Have you gathered around and heard the story of "Goat's" life? He has traveled to and fro upon the earth and has filled various positions in the world, from high private in the rear ranks to coal heaver on the railroad. Now like the Prodigal of old, he has turned to the site of his affections on "The Banks of the Old Buffalo," where his smiling countenance is everywhere seen, more especially among the circles of the fair sex.

Junior Class History

"At last we made our social entry, and
 Joined in many a social band,
 And by our cunning art
 We stole many a maiden's heart,
 On the banks of the old Buffalo."

This verse of our Bethany "National" anthem belongs to the Junior Class and whenever you hear it sung, if you look around you can pick out the Juniors—standing and singing lustily.

The Junior Class is composed of eighteen choice young women and men, from the High Schools of West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Ohio, New York and Illinois. This class passed through all its Freshman and Sophomore trials nobly, and stands today with armor on, ready to meet any further trials. Just a word about this splendid class. Walter Lacock, our President, is Assistant Chemistry Professor, and also installed a wireless station in the College. Fred Helfer is President of the Y. M. C. A., Chaplain of the American Legion here, was one of the delegates to the Des Moines convention, and is a member of the student council. Eliza Edwards, Margaret McCollam, Fred Helfer and Walter Lacock teach in the High School. Marie Holloway and Mary Helphrey carry off the girls' athletic honors for the Junior Class. Eva Neville is President of the Y. W. C. A., and Ruth Leslie is Vice President. Ruth was also a delegate to the Des Moines convention. Gayle Johnston possesses all our artistic ability. Bill Latto was captain of the '19 football squad. "Salty" Hanna is chairman of the "Pep" Committee. Frank Jones is a member of the student council. Robert Tuck is President of Adelpia. Don Boyd is editor of The Collegian. Charles Gwinn is our football star, Joe Reeves our naturalist, and Pete Bemis our physician. Our class would not be complete without someone who could furnish the "eats." This honor we ascribe to Sadie Crouch, our Domestic Science student.

Would that more could be told you of what the Juniors do in Bethany, and of our outlook for the future. But enough of that. As Abe Martin says: "We ain't got many, but we've got a good bit of luck," and, what's more, we've got a good bit of loyalty, and it's this luck and this loyalty which will carry us triumphantly through our Senior year, and help us build a bigger and better Bethany.

MARGARET MCCOLLAM, Class Historian.

Sophomore Poem

Hail! to the class which in triumph advances,
Rulers in peace time and conquerors in war;
Glory her fair name already enhances—
Let her praise be sung from now evermore.

Genius gleams out of our ranks ever steady,
Love, Honor, and Truth make our motto ring true.
No foe ever daunts our strong shield of wisdom,
And honors we've won are gained but by few.

Our Venus de Milo and Helens of Troy
Bequeath us a name for marvelous beauty,
Our athletes all, the first place enjoy,
And stand firm, every ready for duty.

In society's realm we rank with the highest,
In studies our class, ever loyal, leads the way.
In Bethany's halls our lamp shines the brightest,
And covers with splendor the Pink and the Gray.

On field or in classroom, at work or at play,
Our ranks win for Bethany honors anew.
And you'll search through the world for many a day
To find a class like our own '22.

Sophomore Class History

As the mountain climber looks back over the smooth lowland, the broad mountain, the dangerous glacier, and the rocky crags, over which he has just passed, he receives a sense of vast superiority and satisfaction at having conquered these natural impediments. From the higher altitude gained he muses long over the difficulties encountered and is able to follow the landmarks of his trail from the beginning.

Like the climber, we, the Class of 1922, have reached one of the high points in our college career, and are now able to look back over some of the familiar spots, when we, as a class met stern difficulties face to face and triumphed. As we look back we see we are very fortunate in having nearly three-fourths of our original band with us. We have put forth every effort to do our part in college activities and have been rewarded by having the satisfaction of knowing we have not only upheld our share, but that we have actually become leaders in all branches of these activities. We have proved our mettle in the classroom, we have taken the lead in social functions, and we have become the undisputed leaders in athletics. Our class is represented in nearly all affairs of the school which go to make college life worth while. We have taken care of our proteges, "the Freshmen," in a very competent manner, and have set a fine example before them, and seldom has one of our members shirked a duty. Through our college career we have excelled those who have gone before us, and we leave a shining example for those who must climb the weary trail after us. But we must not dwell too long upon our past victories. We are looking far into the future, and are already searching for the higher peaks we must mount. Now we are setting higher standards, and in the two remaining years of our college life we intend to acquire those attributes which will make us "THE PERFECT SENIOR."

History of Freshman Class

It was a rainy, September day that greeted sixty-five Freshmen as they journeyed into their future college home on the famed trolley. The gloom was perhaps a little disheartening; however, it made no change in the expectant spirits of this promising group. Considering the new conditions caused by the war the membership of the class was remarkable and these students had truly come from the corners of the earth because of their journeyings in the service of the government.

Promptly the Sophomores began plans to make the Freshmen see their place. But alas! to the ruin of their dignity the Freshmen showed themselves unwilling to fill the assigned place and hearty resistance was given. A practice skirmish was staged in the corridor with no certain victory for either side. No regulated contest was ever held. The Sophomores immediately decided that something must be done to hide the beauty of the members of our class and so, suddenly one morning, the men appeared in tiny caps of a bright, emerald hue and the girls came with hair "in rags." Perhaps this act of the girls upset the men's choice, for afterwards the Freshmen boys bizzed no more until the Sophomores decided that long acquaintance made it fitting and proper. It was to the hilarious joy of the upperclassmen that each Freshman made a mad rush for a lady after the Christmas vacation.

To prove itself a helpful addition to a College a new class must be able to produce material which is worth while and this the class of '23 has done throughout its first year. Good, steady students are not lacking among this number, who truly delight the hearts of their professors. To athletics we have made an indispensable contribution. Thomas, Roark, Walter, Collier and Mason, all from the Freshman Class, were numbered among our football men who earned letters. On the varsity basketball team, Blue, Collier, Allen and Roark proved themselves. A Freshman basketball team, which did good work, was organized with Thomas as its efficient captain.

On the Freshman calendar are listed two social functions which proved enjoyable. The opening party was held in the library and proclaimed by all a success; a novel picnic afforded sport near the close of the year.

The class has its representative in the Student Council—Frank Helme; and is thus recognized as a working factor in the College life.

The members of this class are proud of their brilliant record made this year and it is their aim to always keep their members prominent in college activities and they look forward, eager to render service to Bethany, which has grown dear in this one year.

American Legion

What does America think of her soldiers and what does America care for ex-soldiers? Although America hates war she loves her soldiers and does not forget to whom she owes her life. When a great war breaks upon us and the call comes to the strong manhood to rise and protect our homes, our institutions and our ideals, then the very life blood of the nation responds. Then we idolize the American soldier—nothing is too good for him. But when the war is over, what then? Do we drop back into our serene self-satisfaction and forget? Do we forget what we owe to them—in our mad rush for wealth? Americans do not forget.

Lest we forget: Every man who answered his country's call stepped out and took his stand between you and destruction. No matter what part he played in the actual conflict he was ready—he was there. Lest we forget, remember the man who is still "over there"—never to return. Mothers never forget! The only bonus for that fellow whose life was as dear to him as that of any other, is a poor wreath of flowers, and even maybe that is denied him in an unknown grave. None there to take note of his departure. HE DIED FOR YOU AND ME!. What more has anyone ever done for us. That was the fortune of war. Others were ready to do as duty and fortune called.

I salute the man who wears the button. Be he the tottering old man who fought at Gettysburg and Vicksburg, or the strong young man in the prime of life who went over the top at Belleau Wood and St. Mihiel, or the man who merely said, "Here Am I," and obeyed his country's call.

The American Legion not only stands as our savior in this the greatest of world crises, but these 5,000,000 young, strong, hopeful men stand for the best in our American life today and constitute our hopes for the future.

The membership of the Legion is at this writing more than one and one-half million. Our college ranks among the first in the per cent of ex-service men who are members, a fact of which we are proud, as we are proud of the Honor Roll that adorns the old chapel hall. And we due reverence pay to those who went but did not come back—and to the noble mothers who can never forget.

The Legion's potential power and influence are even greater than things already done. The record of the Legion to date and my acquaintance with the individual soldier leads me to believe that this influence will be for the good. For the good of the nation every soldier should be a member of the Legion. What 5,000,000 men ask for that will be given.

With the memory of great deeds on the field of honor, or the preparation and being ready for the conflict and the call, with a tie of brotherhood that time will only bind the tighter, with a steadfast purpose to serve our great ideals of democracy and Christianity, we will strive on and the nation will fear no evil.

Bolshevism, I. W. W., pacifism, corrupt politics, strikes, profiteers, slackers and all the unwept, unhonored and unhung, will never stand before this mighty army of truest manhood and womanhood that answered the call to the greatest task the pages of history record.

A nation so guarded and so loved shall not perish from the earth, so we salute the man who wears the button.

The college periodical has always been a problem for undergraduates interested in this phase of student activity. Since the establishment of the "Stylus," Bethany's first newspaper, in 1853, it has ever been an uphill pull for the publishers. Students and advertisers have always been loyal, but the difficulties encountered in the printing have been in past years almost insurmountable.

During the long and eventful history of The Collegian it has been printed in many forms: from book to newsprint; from hand set to machine set. Its way has been a difficult one and, although much progress has been made in the past few months, it has been only a beginning.

To deal with Bethany publication now, is dealing in "futures." The Student Board of Publications, which was established by the Student Council will find ways and means to overcome many of the difficulties of the past. This board will in the future handle all of the business end of Bethany student publications, and it is thought that The Collegian has passed the critical days of its career and that in the future it will occupy a regular place in the long list of undergraduate activities.

It is the purpose of The Collegian staff to make the sheet of real news value to Alumni and students alike and to be a real feature in Bethany life.

Decima Campbell Barclay

To the Last Rose of Summer

(In Memory of Decima Campbell Barclay, Who Died May 4, 1920)

I

The last Rose of Summer, the friend,
The woman, the mother true-hearted,
The daughter of a noble sire,
From us she has departed,

II.

She left this scene, not as a plant
Blighted at an early day;
But like a rose that blooms all summer,
Scattering scents all the way.

III

The last Rose of Summer has faded at last
And leaves but aromas behind;
The last Rose of Summer has left us at last,
The noble heart and kind.

IV

Last Rose of Summer, fare thee well!
We miss thee from thy place;
Fare thee well, happy Spirit that's gone
To see thy Father's face.

History of Bethany College

Bethany College received her charter in 1840 and opened her classes in 1841, with the founder, Alexander Campbell, as the first President and with the following Faculty: W. K. Pendleton, Andrew F. Ross, Charles Stewart, and Robert Richardson. These men have had many distinguished successors, such as the well-known author, James Lane Allen, who taught Latin, and Charles Louis Loos. Some of the more prominent Presidents since Mr. Campbell have been W. K. Pendleton, W. H. Woolery, A. McLean (who served for one year, before he gave full time to the work of the Foreign Christian Missionary Society), and T. E. Cramblet, whose administration of eighteen years was closed by his death in June, 1919.

The influence of Bethany's sons and daughters has been felt around the globe. Among her graduates, she counts preachers, missionaries, business men, educators, and statemen, among them: W. P. Bentley, of China; W. D. Cunningham, of Tokyo, Japan; Hon. Champ Clark, of Missouri; Hon. M. M. Cochran, of Pennsylvania; George Darsie, of Kentucky; C. P. Hedges, of Africa; J. T. Hundley, of Lynchburg College, Virginia; Miss Emma Lyon, of Nanking, China; President E. O. Lovett, of Rice Institute, Texas; Justice J. R. Lamar; President John W. McGarvey, of the College of the Bible, Kentucky; John G. McGavran, of India, and the College of Missions; Mrs. Bessie Farrer Madsen, of India; Earl W. Oglebay, of Ohio; the late Senator George T. Oliver, of Pennsylvania; Herbert Smith, of Africa; G. L. Wharton, of India; W. H. Woolery, one of Bethany's Presidents, and E. V. Zollars, for some time President of Hiram College, and founder of Phillips University.

Recent years have witnessed a notable development in Bethany's physical equipment and financial status. The administration of Dr. Cramblet, especially, added to the college many important assets, such as a considerable endowment, electric transportation to Wellsburg, electric lights, and several new buildings. The curriculum has been extended and strengthened, and the scope of the work enlarged by the addition of the Agriculture Department, prospected from the very first, but realized only in recent years. This department is well provided for and exerts a large and increasing influence. Its location, environment, equipment, and support indicate a still greater usefulness in prospect for it.

Under the leadership of President Cloyd Goodnight, who was elected last summer and began his work at the opening of the fall term, the morale and enthusiasm of the student body and the strength and organization of the Faculty have been wonderfully improved; and the academic standing of the college is being continually strengthened and fortified. The new President recognizes that the college owes its existence and continued support to its fidelity to the religious movement which called it into being and its persistence in training and sending forth preachers and missionaries. At the same time, he evidently believes in providing a complete educational environment for this work, so that students in other departments may be able to receive a thorough training in their chosen fields under the influence of the distinctly religious courses, and with access to them as elective and required courses, while the preachers and missionaries likewise receive their Bible and professional training in a practical, and not a monastic, atmosphere, and with access to such other courses as may be of benefit in preparing them for their life-work.

Under such leadership, with the confidence of the student body itself, and the continued loyal support of her great constituency, old Bethany rejoices today in the most promising future which she has ever faced throughout her history.

The Ministerial Association

"For I am not ashamed of the gospel: for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth."—Rom. 1:16.

The Association is made up of students who are preparing themselves for the Christian ministry. Meetings are held every other Tuesday night in the Memorial Church. These meetings are addressed by men who have had a wide experience in the ministry. During the year such men as W. R. Walker, W. J. Fields and Charles Darsie from outside fields have addressed the Association. Besides men from outside fields President Goodnight and Professors Calhoun and Carpenter have brought inspiring and instructive messages on the practical problems of the ministry.

A symposium has been inaugurated in which the Senior members lead in the discussion of vital problems and doctrinal subjects. This feature promises to be of great worth to the entire membership.

A friendly co-operation exists between the Association and its sister organization, the Mission Band.

Members of the Association are doing a constructive work in pulpits of Ohio, West Virginia, and Pennsylvania. YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION

Under the capable leadership of Fred W. Helfer, President; Harry Martin, Vice President and Treasurer, and Louis Perry, Secretary, the Young Men's Christian Association of Bethany College has had a most prosperous year. Mr. Helfer's rich experience both as chaplain and as Y. M. C. A. Secretary in the United States Army enabled him to organize the work, to introduce new methods, and to instill a fine spirit into the members.

The President of the Association represented the boys at the Student Volunteer Convention at Des Moines, Iowa. Upon the return of the delegates, the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. held a joint meeting. All present were inspired by the reports of the big things that are being contemplated and done by the present organization of Student Volunteers. A pleasant social hour followed the program.

The Social and Program Committee, consisting of Clifford Bucy, Raymond Ellis, L. L. Wagoner, and Finis Dunn aimed to make every man realize that each was a part of the college life, and to create a feeling of fellowship and goodwill. The "Pep" Committee, Milton Hanna, William Herbster, Samuel Allen, Horatio Pease, and Karl Lutz caught the vision and conducted the chapel "pep" meeting and other "pep" meetings in such a way as to send our athletic teams off with a confidence that won many a game for the Green and White.

One of the most helpful and inspiring features of the year's work was the helpful addresses given to the boys. President Goodnight made them feel that he was one with them in every effort for the uplift of their members and for the advancement of their cause. Professors Bourne, Workman, Calhoun and Carpenter spoke in a spirit of fellowship that assured the members of their hearty co-operation. Professors Taylor and Balch, former members of the Faculty, spoke in a cordial way that told of their continued interest and sympathy in the activities of the college boys.

The successful work of the Y. M. C. A. during the past year has created an atmosphere of fellowship, and spirit of "pep" that will help start off the opening days of the coming year with a boost for a bigger and better Association and College at Bethany.

The Student Volunteer Band

The Student Volunteer Band of Bethany College was organized May 25, 1906, with a threefold purpose: (1) to study matters pertaining to our future work as missionaries in the foreign field; (2) to aid spiritual and intellectual growth, (3) to create and foster missionary spirit among our fellow students, thereby encouraging others to become members of the Student Volunteer Movement for Foreign Missions. To become a member in the Volunteer Band the student signs the declaration that reads, "It is my purpose, if God permit, to become a foreign missionary."

During the year of '19-'20 a special effort has been made by the organization to have the co-operation of the Ministerial Association and the two have studied together missionary topics of interest both to prospective foreign missionaries and local ministers.

ATHLETICS

CARL V. MILLER, Athletic Director

With the revision of Bethany's athletic policy came the necessity of selecting an Athletic Director. The Alumni Committee, after careful consideration, chose Carl V. Miller, of New Martinsville, W. Va., to fill that important position.

Carl Miller is one of the best known athletes in this section. He is a graduate of West Virginia Wesleyan, where he took part in all athletics during his four years in college. He was the quarterback of the famous Methodist team that won the state championship in 1917.

It is in baseball and track, however, that the new director is best known. Both in college and semi-professional ball he has made a name throughout this section. He holds the state records in the 220 and 440 dashes and has proved himself a competent coach in these branches of athletics.

Director Miller assisted Coach Beckelheimer last fall in coaching the football team and proved himself a competent and efficient man at the task.

HERMAN R. BECKELHEIMER, Coach

After the trying days of 1918-19, the Coach of Bethany's athletics was doomed to a difficult position. The available football material was good, but there was not enough for more than one good team. Many difficulties were also experienced in obtaining material with which to equip the team. The schedule was the heaviest attempted by a Bethany team in years and the time and facilities for training were inadequate. "Beck," however, whipped the team into shape and met every opponent and made a creditable showing.

Coach Beckelheimer, while a student at Morris Harvey, was chosen as all-state tackle. From Morris Harvey he went to Vanderbilt, where he holds the distinction of being the only man to have ever made that team in his Freshman year. He was assistant coach for two years under our former Coach Chambers at Marshall College.

DR. WILBUR H. CRAMBLET

"Doc," was virtually Athletic Director during the season of 1919. In spite of the numerous other duties which claim his attention he shouldered this added responsibility cheerfully and did his best. "Doc" has always been in favor of greater athletics in Bethany and has spent a great deal of energy and time in attaining that end.

MISS GOLDIA BUTZER

For some years we have felt the need of a coach for girls' athletics. The new gym and compulsory physical training made this an absolute necessity. Though the girls have no varsity, class games are staged in various gym sports which serve to greatly stimulate the interest of the co-eds in athletics in general as well as contributing to their physical and mental health. Miss Butzer is to be congratulated upon her success in this work.

LANE McCAMMON, Football Manager

When the matter of electing a manager for the 1919 football team came up, Lane McCammon, '20, appeared as the logical man to fill the bill. A great man duties evolved upon a Bethany student-manager that do not usually fall to such a dignitary. After a year of service with the United States forces overseas Lane had come back to resume his studies. However, without a complaint of the extra work and true to the Bethany spirit, he undertook the job and performed it in a manner creditable both to himself and his Alma Mater.

J. ROANE LUMPKIN, Baseball Manager

"Lump" is another student-manager who has proved himself worthy of the honor accorded him. He first won his "B" in football several years ago and has contributed to the success of all branches of Bethany inter-collegiate athletics in some capacity or another. He has performed his duties well in every capacity and Bethany will suffer a loss when he goes from our halls.

WILLIAM T. LATTO, Football Captain

"Bill" says that rigorous training is the secret of football success and by his own example leads his teammates. "Bill" was elected Captain of the 1918 squad and acting captain in 1919. He is known as a clean sportsman, a hard player, and a good leader.

HARRY F. RANDOLPH, Basketball Captain

"Randy," our big center, came to us in the fall of 1918 and made a place on the team as center in his Freshman year. His playing was consistent throughout the year and in the spring of '19 he was chosen as team leader for the season just passed. He is a splendid athlete and clean sportsman and his aggressive work on the floor has done much toward carrying his team mates on to victory.

Football

Late in the afternoon of September 20, 1919, there gathered together on the gridiron back of the college building, some of the best athletes that Bethany has had in years. The purpose of these men was to build up a man-power machine that could defeat any college football team in this part of the country. All these men realized the importance and benefits of a strong training program which would condition them for the grueling contests of the year. They gave to the game all that they had, and each day showed the results of the previous day's work.

Although it was impossible to procure equipment, some thirty men were on the field every day in such football clothes as could be found. "Bill" Latto, captain of the team, stood before his men a daily example of what the clean sportsman should be, and aided much in leading his men to victory.

Coach Beckelheimer, by his earnest labors, developed a team of which our Alma Mater may well be proud. The showing that the team made against such teams as West Virginia University and Washington and Jefferson is a great tribute to his ability.

"Doc" was, as ever, an enthusiastic booster of the football team and assisted with the coaching during practice hours. He deserves much credit for the way in which he has handled the athletics of the college in the capacity of graduate manager.

Eighteen men won their "B" this year and of these, sixteen will be with us next fall, which assures Bethany of another team of which she may justly be proud.

Basketball Review

Bethany entered her second year of basketball in the new gymnasium with four straight victories, and, although handicapped by numerous injuries, she turned out a triumphant team, eleven of the nineteen games played being victories for the followers of the Green and White. The totals show a one hundred and twenty-eight point lead over her opponents. Only three of the men who played varsity ball last year were on the squad this year, and Coach Beckelheimer deserves a vast amount of credit for whipping into shape a quintet such as Bethany's out of men who had never played together before and having them turn out real winners. The Bethany squad ran up against some of the stiffest opposition in the tri-state district and the score-book shows the splendid way in which they handled themselves. Bethany College is proud of the way in which her representatives of the floor game fought and won, and we look back on this year's team as one of the most successful teams Bethany has ever turned out. The following men are now wearing their Bethany "B's" as a reward for their season's labors:

Girls' Basketball

The girls' team coached by Miss Butzer did not get a chance to show what it could do, for no games were scheduled, as a ruling was made barring games with outsiders. The inter-class games, however, gave each girl a chance to play on her respective class team, and, as a result, much good playing was witnessed by the student body. The Sophomore Class won the inter-class championship by defeating each of the other classes. The Sophomore-Freshman game was the most interesting of the inter-class series, resulting in a victory for the Sophomores. Each team had its quota of good players, which helped in making the game interesting to all. Through the excellent playing of her girls, Miss Butzer has established her reputation as a coach of basketball. Let us hope that the team will show still greater improvement next year, and that it will get a chance to demonstrate its ability before all. The teams were as follows:

Baseball Review

The winter of 1920 marked a new era in Bethany College athletics, and the baseball season of 1920 was our first opportunity to note its success. When the coaches issued the call for baseball in the latter days of March, about thirty men appeared. From these were picked a team of which any college in the country could well be proud. To the time of this writing they have almost a clean slate, and bid fair to be the West Virginia State champions of 1920.

The team is strong in every department. With Bromley of the 1918 squad and Randolph of the 1919 squad and Lewis, a Freshman southpaw, on the pitching staff, there were few worries on that score. Even this was not the extent of the staff. Marshall, who played left all season, pitched with remarkable success on the 1918 team. Cook, whose regular position is third, also proved a good man in the box when he pitched the varsity to its hard-earned victory over Concord Normal.

Behind the plate there was Roark, who caught a great game all of the time. Reynolds, the hard-hitting little outfielder, was ready to step into this position if needed. Never was a Bethany battery better fortified.

On the infield, McConnell played a good game at first and Callahan filled the second base position in an acceptable manner. Cook at third cannot be excelled in college circles. Rezzonico played a finished game at short and left nothing to be desired in that position. However, he was out of the first five games, due to the injury of a finger in practice. Wolfe filled the gap and showed that he was able to take care of any infield position as utility man.

The outer gardens were well taken care of by Marshall in left, Reynolds, center, and Weyman, right.

The Eastern-Southern trip taken by the team was one of the longest ever attempted by a Bethany squad. On April 28, they left for Pittsburgh, returning eleven days later by way of Parkersburg. Two games on this trip were cancelled, due to wet grounds. Of the remaining eight played seven were won.

In the game with V. P. I. at Blacksburg, the Bethany "jinx" got busy and caused Lewis and Roark to run together on an attempt for an infield fly. Lewis was hurt so badly that it was impossible for him to continue the game, which was the only game lost on the trip.

MUSIC

Musical Societies of Bethany College

In the winter of 1919 a need was felt in Bethany College for a choral society, also glee clubs for men's and women's voices. So in the latter part of January a men's glee club was organized and a little later a chorus for women.

Later in the year it was decided that by combining the two an efficient mixed chorus would be the result. This was done in February of the same year and the combined chorus was called the Choral Society. Clifford Bucy was made President and Elton Schwinger, Secretary.

On March 26 a concert was given and a fine program was rendered, numbers of which included songs by both glee clubs and also solos by different members of the Choral Club.

On October 24 the first meeting of the society for the year of 1919-'20 was held in the college chapel. Elton Schwinger was elected President, and Ethel Burdette, Secretary.

It was planned early in the year to give a Japanese operetta, "The Yokohama Maid," Commencement week, Tuesday, June 15, 1920. Arch Oldaker was elected general manager and he has proved himself an enthusiastic and efficient worker in this responsible position. A concert was given by the glee clubs on April 16, 1920, the proceeds of which went toward the operetta.

Members of the men's glee club have good voices and are enthusiastic workers. Many things are expected of them during their stay in college.

The girls have also been enthusiastic workers and have given generously of their time in preparation for concert singing.

Plans are now under way for a road trip, for both boys' and girls' clubs, for next year, and with the available material it is assured that they will be successful.

It is to be hoped that the Sinfonian Choral Society will continue to grow and each year become more successful in making a splendid record for itself and the college.

Sketch of "Yokohama Maid"

"Yokohama Ma'id," written by Arthur A. Penn, is a comic opera in two acts. It is a tale of love and romance with the city of Yokohama as the scenic background. West overcomes the ancient East and love conquers the desire for riches. Presented in a pleasing way and enlivened by catchy airs, the operetta will doubtless be the most successful musical production the college has presented for some time.

Arthur A. Penn has successfully produced a number of comic operas and operettas. The best known of these are "Captain Crossbones," "Mamzelle Taps," "Yokohama Maid" and "The Lass of Limerick."

DRAMATICS

The Merry Masquers

"All the world's a stage
And all the men and women merely players."

The Merry Masquers, the dramatic club of Bethany College, was organized on October 17, 1913, by twenty members of the second year English class, and with the exception of one year, that of '18-'19, has had a continuous history since that time. The club was organized for the purpose of dramatic study and presentation and for social intercourse. Membership was open to Sophomore, Junior and Senior students, and in cases of marked histrionic ability to Freshmen. The Presidents of the club have been Maude Shultz, Lyrel Teagarden, Malcolm Norment, Hugh Dwight Darsie, Adelaide McCollam, and Lane McCammon, the present incumbent. In their six years' history the Merry Masquers have staged some excellent productions, such as "Midsummer Night's Dream," "Ralph Roister Doister," "Everyman," "As You Like It," and several old English Christmases. Among the bright stars of past Merry Masquer fame are Jimmy Pearson, Roberta Tener, Ruth Bloom, Ernest Wray, Dwight Darsie, Charles Moore, Virginia Netting, Helen Irvin, Simon Davidian, and many others whose names space will not permit of individual mention, but whose work will be recalled by the older generation of dramatic fans.

The work this year has been particularly successful and a great deal of enthusiasm has been manifested by both the members and the students outside. The club was very wise in its election of President, and he in his appointment of committees, and as a result a number of programs have been given which have reflected much credit on the organization and which have brought into the limelight some young talent which bids fair to rival the brilliant galaxy who have quitted this small school stage for the larger stage of the world. Perhaps the most outstanding production of the year was the dramatization of Longfellow's famous poem, Hiawatha, which a critic pronounced "the best entertainment which Bethany people have been privileged to enjoy for a long time." The Burns program in January and the Wooing Scene from "King Henry V" were also well received. However, the big event of the entire year will be the Commencement Play, "The Tempest," which, following the custom of other Commencement plays of Bethany, will be staged on the campus on the evening of June 14.

This brief review of the club's history and activities would not be complete without the mention of its greatest promoter, Mrs. Anna R. Bourne, who has given so much of her time and thought to its interests. To her above all others are due the past achievements and the bright future of the Merry Masquers.

Adelphian Literary Society

Colors: Purple, Gold and White

Motto: Noli neglegere gratiam, quae in te est.

In the years of "Old Bethany's" history, there has been a band of loyal workers who have toiled earnestly together to upbuild the literary standards of our Alma Mater and to prepare the young people who are going forth year by year from this institution into the world's activities to be better able to meet the battle of life. This society was first organized to meet the demands of the class of young people who were being educated for the ministry. It was not long, however, until the old policy of a sermonette society was put aside, and the members adopted a broader policy that included a wider sphere and began to touch the life of all the students of the school and to assist them in their work. The great aim of the Adelphians from that day to this has been to take the young, bashful, frightened, and "green" Freshman into their midst and there, by means of a rigid course of training, to take away the rough edges, develop his talents, and give him a greater confidence in himself until this "diamond in the rough" is developed into the sparkling gem able to meet and to lead his fellowmen and to be of service in this great world of activity. It was on the Adelphian platform that the Freshman made his oratorical debut, the Sophomore declaimed his high-sounding and ornate phrases, the Junior painted his picture of hope, and the Senior pointed his hearers toward the serious and grave responsibilities of life. Thus it has been a real training school for all college students along literary lines; not a social organization (although Adelpbia has her social times), or a figurehead of the institution, but a real, live, active organization, fulfilling its mission in the program of a school with the lofty ideals of "Old Bethany." In carrying out her plans and ambitious aims Adelpbia has never failed, but is ever going onward and upward to better things, while holding her position of "The Honor Society" of the school. Words of praise are useless as all Adelphians wish that they be known not because of their much speaking, but by their works. Therefore, to know Adelpbia, look at her glorious and successful past and judge her by the fruits of her efforts. Emerson said, "Low aim, and not failure, is crime." To live with a high aim and to do all in your power to reach that aim is to live indeed and to be a success in the work undertaken. This is the spirit of Adelpbia.

Neotrophian Literary Society

Neotrophian History

With the passing of the years, customs, beliefs, and methods change; memories grow dim; and sometimes, old ideals pass away, giving place to the new and popular. But, as a wanderer returns from his wanderings to the joy and contentment of his youth, the splendid traditions and sincere purposes of the long-ago welcome us with guiding arms of consolation and advice. It is in this spirit that we refer to the exalted history of our society.

The Neotrophian Literary Society was founded on November 5, 1841, the first year of our college. For a number of years it enjoyed a prestige and influence as one of the leading literary organizations of the section. A library of some twelve hundred volumes was collected by the society, making it a center in the college for literary culture and development. During these early years Neotrophia enjoyed helpful collaboration with the American Literary Institute. Misfortune came to test the vigor of the society in 1859, when all the property, including its fine library, was destroyed by fire. This was repeated in 1879. Numerous as the obstacles were, Neotrophia climbed on toward her ideals in loyalty to truth, experiencing hardships with the college and enjoying with her the eras of prosperity, always endeavoring to furnish for the student a field where he might try to measure the growth of his abilities being cultivated in the classrooms. In this service Neotrophia has contributed men of leadership to the political, religious, and commercial realms of our own great country and of foreign lands.

In 1918, after a brief rest, Neotrophia was invaded by the co-educational spirit and opened her membership to the ladies of the college. This move was welcomed by the young ladies, since they were very glad to be honored by membership in the historic society, and they have excellently demonstrated their ability and enthusiasm in holding up Neotrophia's standards.

May the spirit of our grand old traditions and the enthusiasm of former years burn in the heart of each Neotrophian, and in unison of spirit may we sing:

"Onward, upward, ever marching,
Toward the Truth we richly prize.
'Light descends,' but genius soars
Where her constellations burn,
And the stars of Neotrophia's glory rise."

Agricultural Society

Prior to this year the students of the Home Economics and Agricultural departments have had no common interest and very little opportunity for social development. Since the majority of students from both departments were not connected with any social organization, the idea was conceived of uniting the two departments into one society, thus affording an opportunity for intellectual as well as social development.

Late in the fall, accordingly, a joint meeting of the two departments was called and Professor Workman presented the plans for such an organization. The purpose of this organization was not only to provide for social intercourse, but to afford a place where we could meet together and study the problems pertaining to rural and home life, and discuss the current topics of interest to Agricultural and Home Economics students. The plan was enthusiastically accepted and a committee was appointed to draw up a constitution.

When the constitution was completed, a meeting was called and we proceeded with the election of officers. Mr. Hanson was chosen to be our leader. Under his leadership the organization has grown and prospered. Monthly meetings have been held, in which were discussed topics of interest to boys and girls alike.

We are sure that we express the sentiment of the whole society when we say that this year has been one of great interest and inspiration to all who have attended the meetings of our little group. And the hope of those who go out this year, is that the next year may be even more prosperous than the last.

OLD BETHANY

1
My Father sent me to Old Bethany.
And resolved that I should be a man.
And so I settled down.
In that quiet little town.
On the banks of the Old Buffalo.

On the banks of the Old Buffalo, my boys,
Where Old Bethany evermore shall stand.
For has she not stood
Since the time of the flood,
On the banks of the Old Buffalo.

2
As Fresh they used me rather roughly,
But I the fearful gauntlet ran:
Oh, they shook me so about
That they turned me inside out.
On the banks of the Old Buffalo.

3
We passed through all these trials nobly,
And then as Sophs our turn began.
Oh, we hazed the poor Fresh so
That they longed for Heaven I know.
On the banks of the Old Buffalo.

4
And then I made my social entree,
And joined in many a social band,
And by my cunning art
Stole many a maiden's heart.
On the banks of the Old Buffalo.

5
At last we joined the Senior circle,
And spread our fame o'er all the land,
While we crowned our goblets high
With the hopes of "by and by."
On the banks of the Old Buffalo.

6
Then sing aloud for Alma Mater,
The Green and White be in the van,
For with her motto high
Bethany's name shall never die.
On the banks of the Old Buffalo.

Wells Found Guilty

Verdict Rendered By Special Session of Bethany Circuit Court

At a special meeting of the Bethany Circuit Court, held on the night of May 3, 1920, R. T. Wells, a Freshman, was found guilty of violating the laws and ancient customs of Bethany College. Judge Cooper, before whom the case was tried, sentenced the prisoner to be put "off bizz" for seven days and to wear a Freshman cap for fourteen days.

Wells, who entered Bethany on March 25, hails from Oxford, Indiana. Since arriving his attitude has been rather "Fresh," even for a Freshman. Finally his violations of rules and customs became so flagrant that he was taken into custody by Sheriff "Buck" Dunn and Deputy Seely. He was taken to the court room in the basement of the library, where the entire male population had assembled to witness the trial. The prisoner was tried on the following indictments:

R. T. Wells is hereby charged on this third day of May, nineteen hundred and twenty, with the following high crimes and misdemeanors:

(1) Said Wells has violated the law defining the limits for bizz walks in the following instances, towit:

(a) On April the 10th the aforesaid Wells and his accomplice, Miss X—, were seen strolling far beyond the westerly limit, namely Point Breeze.

(b) Again on April 17th the same offense was with criminal intent and malice again perpetrated.

(c) Furthermore that on April 24th the aforesaid Wells and the aforesaid accomplice, Miss X—, in continued defiance of the law, did meander far beyond the legal bounds, and did visit the Lone Grave and Campbell Cemetery.

(2) Said Wells has been entirely too vociferous for a sod-buster from the wilds of Indiana. The strident tones of his harsh voice have ever been an outstanding feature on the campus.

(3) Said Wells, with unsurpassed arrogance and unparalleled vanity, has continually mouthed forth his pretended excellence as an athlete, which claim has no foundation in fact.

(4) The demeanor of the said Wells on the gym floor is ungentlemanly and unsportsmanlike, being characterized by lack of proper respect for upper-classmen and by a lack of chivalrous treatment to the fairer sex during contests on the floor.

(5) Said Wells is conceited in such matters as musical ability, social position and personal appearance.

(6) Said Wells conducts himself in the dining hall in a manner unbecoming a gentleman and a student of Bethany College.

The case was ably handled by the prosecuting attorneys, Sweeney and Mley. An effective defence was made by Attorneys Hughes and Anderson. The final appeal of Attorney Anderson to the jury for leniency on account of the extreme youthfulness of the defendant was very touching. However, the evidence was so clear that the jury rendered a verdict of guilty after only one minute of deliberation.

Witnesses for the prosecution were: McCormick, Mason, and Donaldson. Witnesses for the defense were: Hyatt, Blue, and Marshall.

WELLSBURG, W. VA.

Mr. Harry Martin spent a very troublesome evening keeping in touch with the cars.—Adelphian Miscellany. He must have ridden to Wellsburg on one of 'em.

Sweeney: "Professor, what's your opinion of hell?"

Prof. Martin: "Well, I've had a lot of it, but I can't give my opinion here."

Lutz, the Elder (reporting in Principles of Education): "Grading should be based on psychological and physiological age rather than chronological age."

Prof. Hunter (after a pause): "Yes, I suppose that's true."

Jim Hurst (late to breakfast): "Doesn't it say in the Bible, 'Wherefore my brethren, when ye come together to eat, wait one for another'?"

Percy T.: "Yes, and it also says if any man is hungry let him eat at home."

Tillock enjoys a good view of the blackboard, hence Miss Butzer invited him to take a front seat in French class.

Monroe's Qualities

Prof. Martin: "Miss Eubank, what can you tell us about President Monroe?"

Sally E.: "Well, he was a very sweet tempered man."

Jim Hurst: "Professor, why aren't more of your Economics class in Sunday School?"

Prof. Martin: "Well, they shouldn't let that keep them out of the picture—there are lots of guys out there I never saw before."

Alice Drake: "Bud, I want to take your picture after class."

Bud: "Wait till tomorrow; I look like a hobo now."

Alice: "Well, I want you to look natural."

Tillock (in barber's chair, sputtering): "Do you charge for filling a customer's mouth with soap?"

Wid Tarr: "Only when he swallows the brush."

Prof. Hess: "Now you see that the instantaneous speed of a wheel is greater at the top than at the bottom."

"Red" Cox (recovering dazedly): "Do you mean to say, professor, that the top of a train will move faster than the bottom?"

Buck Mason: "Are worms good to eat, John?"

John Seely: "No. Why?"

B. M.: "Well, there was one on your lettuce, but it's gone now."

"Goat" Davies: "Well, I must go and take a few lessons in Masonry."

Eliza E.: "Oh! are you going to be a bricklayer? I thought you were studying law."

Perhaps As Assistant in Physics and Chemistry

President Goodnight: "Miss Lippelt, will Miss Stafford come back next year?"

Miss Lippelt: "Yes, but I don't know in what capacity?"

Elizabeth Baker (emphatically): "The man I marry must have some sense."

Bold Gallant (thoughtfully): "Well, he won't."

What's in a Name?

The Educational Psyc. Class was having a report from a test on the methods of association which had been given a few days previous.

Edith D. wrote the word "Blue." Professor wrote, "Waylon."

Edith: "I don't get the association."

Prof. H. (looking very wise): "Well, er—I guess that is one of those new shades of blue."

Faith iz the rite bower ov Hope. If it warn't for Faith there would be no living in this world. We couldn't even eat hash with emmy safety. Faith is one of them warriors that don't know when she's whipped.—(Philosophy of the Beanery.)

"Sailor" Reese (to Ethel): "Do you sing 'Forever and Forever'?"

Ethel: "No, I stop for meals."

If our thoughts could be read, would our faces be redder?

Olive M.: "You smell like chewing gum."

Lottie G.: "I am chewing gum."

Half Starved: "Mrs. Russell, I want a dark breakfast."

Mrs. R.: "What do you mean, a dark breakfast?"

H. S.: "Last night you told the cook to give me a light supper and I didn't like it."

Prof. Calhoun: "Now Joshua commanded the sun to stand still and it obeyed him. How do you account for that?"

Helme: "Don't believe it stood still, Professor; just slowed up."

Prof. Calhoun (in Public Speaking): "Next, Mr. Bucy. 'How did you die'?"

Bud W.: "I'll never go riding again in the same machine with that referee."

Bud S.: "Why?"

Bud W.: "He looked around to where I was sitting with my girl and penalized me fifteen yards for holding."

Helme: "Faint heart never won a fair lady."

Cundiff: "But she's a brunette."

"Who was Nero, Bill?" asked one student of another.

"Wasn't he the chap who was always cold?"

"No," said the wise student, "that was Zero, another guy altogether."

True love is no respecter of purses.

The President caused some consternation among the Faculty members when he announced that it was customary for those dignitaries to lend their clothes for mock-chapel. Some of them failed to show up at the affair.

The first indication of a good automobile driver is that he does not continually blow his horn.

An exciting game was in progress. The new stude looked on with interest until he saw the dealer slip two aces off the bottom of the deck.

"Did you see that?" he asked another onlooker.

"Well," replied the old stude, "wasn't it his deal?"

"Do you believe that the things you eat influence your dreams?"

"Undoubtedly! I ate a sirloin steak the other evening and dreamed about bankruptcy all night."

Helme: "Wonder why that girl put two green stamps on this letter. How did she know I was a Freshman?"

Prof. Bourne: "Mr. Mason, what is a theme?"

Buck: "A theme is a paragraph in solution."

Prof. Williams: "Now that is the twenty-fifth one, do you all see it?"

Would-be Physicist: "I don't!"

Prof. Williams: "Well, you ought to, it's clear as mud."

Lottie G.: "Do you know 'All the World Will Be Jealous of Me'?"

"Salty" H.: "I hadn't thought about it."

"Baldy" Sutton came into class the other day with a suspicious looking mixture on his right shoulder. Upon examination it was found to be face powder.

Warning: Always use a whisk-broom after bizzing.

Prof. Calloun: "Young man, I am glad that you disapprove of dancing."

Stude: "Yes, I think there are lots of better places to hug a girl than in a ball-room."

Between lovers a little confession is a dangerous thing.

Stude: "Cheer up, Prof.! Why don't you drown your sorrow?"

Prof.: "She's bigger than I am and besides it would be murder."

Sometimes a man's friends are his limitations.

Heard in the Editorial Room

"Though this be play to you,
'Twas death to us."

The Editor, in a good humor:

1:35 P. M. "Say, Harry, dear, that's a good boy, please run down town and bring up that paper; I forgot it." Harry runs.

1:45 P. M. "Say, Harry, I have to have some glue. Please run down to your abode and bring up that bottle I left there." Harry runs.

1:50 P. M. Harry: "I couldn't find any glue." "Where did you look?" "In my abode." "Oh, I forgot. I thought I was talking to Roush. I meant the Z. T. A. House. Please run down there and get it." Harry runs.

1:54 P. M. "Say, Harry, this table is too high for me. Please run down to my room and bring up that little typewriter table of mine." Harry runs.

1:59 P. M. "Say, Harry, this table wobbles. Please run down to the Rechabite Club and bring me up that dining table." Harry balks: "Say, do you think I'm a mule?"

Everybody in a bad humor:

Editor: "Say, Miss Literary Editor, what do you think about that?"

Lit. Editor (tired and cross): "Oh, that's lovely."

Editor: "Lovely, indeed! Say, you know I wish women were men sometimes, so I could shake them."

Art Editor: "Do you think this ought to go in, Mr. Hurst? It might make them mad."

Editor: "If there is any kicking around here, send them to me. I can bear it; my shoulders are broad."

Art Editor (snaps): "Yes, if your mind isn't."

Hurst steps on Miss Eubank's foot: "Pardon me, but that's what you can expect if you WILL work in an office."

Midnight—all on point of collapse:

Mr. Hurst falls back into chair utterly exhausted. Ten minutes later, slowly rising: "I wonder what this is I have been sitting on."

Miss Drake: "That's your hat."

McConnell: "? ? ? ? ?"

Prof. Martin: "That's right as far as you have gone."
